Malta

In recent decades, Malta has earned a solid reputation among seasoned travelers and discerning expats as an affordable, welcoming destination. But how many of us could quickly pinpoint it on a world map?

This small European island nation is located in the central Mediterranean, less than a hundred miles south of Sicily, Italy. Because Malta's latitude is about the same as Los Angeles, it's one of the warmest, sunniest places to be in Europe over the winter months.

Malta is made up of two main islands: the larger island of Malta and smaller Gozo. Each has its own unique charms. The 'big island' is more built-up and boasts a greater number of attractions, while Gozo offers a more relaxed, natural feel.

With a population of around half a million and a total land area of just 122 square miles, Malta should feel a lot more crowded than it does. Fortunately, finding your own quiet place to hike, enjoy the beach, or savor a cliff-top seafood lunch above the Mediterranean isn't hard at all, once you know where to look.

It's amazing just how much there is to experience in Malta, despite its relatively small size the island offers a surprising range of world-class attractions and activities for all ages. Whether you're into ancient history, fine dining, diving, hiking, boating, or wandering through vineyards and villages, you'll never run out of cool things to see and do here. And if soaking up the sun on a cliff-lined beach and doing nothing at all is your preference, you'll find more than enough breathtaking spots to do that as well.

Destination: Madonna di Campiglio, Italy

Madonna di Campiglio is one of Italy's most fashionable ski resorts, with Italian style noticeable on both the pistes and the streets. Quintessentially Italian and vibrantly attractive, it is second only to the craggy charisma of Cortina d'Ampezzo in the Dolomites.

The core of the ski area is four small linked sectors around the villages, and intermediates and above who rejoice in perfect corduroy and nifty steepers are in for a real treat – Madonna regularly wins prizes for the quality of its piste grooming.

During the heyday of the Habsburgs in the late 19th century, the village was briefly a summer extension of the court of Vienna, when Emperor Franz Josef of Austria liked to walk in the woods here.

The slopes spread out widely, connecting with the outlying villages of Folgarida and Marilleva, and with the neighbouring resort of Pinzolo via a spectacular 16-minute gondola ride. The link, which was created in 2011, greatly added to the appeal of Madonna's ski area, extending it to 150km. And if that is not enough, the regional Superskiram lift pass covers a total of eight resorts, including Passo Tonale, with 150 lifts and 380km of pistes.

Madonna is in the Dolomites, some distance to the west of better-known Selva and the other resorts around the Sella Ronda massif. winding and busy roads.

While it stands at a respectable 1,520m, this is not a resort famous for early or late season conditions. Much of the ski area is below 2,100m, and the highest pistes are 2,500m.

INTRODUCTION

Welcome to my city, Bolzano an Italian's town like no other! Its architecture, art and even the way of life of its inhabitants is the result of the clash of two very different cultures nowhere else to be found: the Mediterranean and the Austrian.

On this tour we will dive into the past of the town, from its simple beginnings as a Roman settlement to a multicultural international cosmopolitan city that knows how to enjoy life that still today remains a place not quite like anywhere else in Europe. I will fill you in with not only the history of the town by showing the major sights, but also with anecdotes and curious facts about famous characters that lived or stayed here like Casanova or Claudia De Medici and even a family member of the Dracula's family!

On this tour I will also take you to my favorite spot from where you can admire the Dolomites from afar. As your private guide, I can adjust the itinerary and duration based on your interest. Please let me know of any special needs or requests.
